Dialogues – Photographs by Hélène Binet

From 3 June to 21 September 2015 the Bauhaus-Archiv / Museum für Gestaltung, Berlin, is presenting “Dialogues – Photographs by Hélène Binet”. The exhibition has been curated by Hélène Binet herself, who is among the world’s leading architectural photographers, and it displays photographs of buildings by the architects John Hejduk, Le Corbusier, Peter Zumthor and Zaha Hadid as key moments from 25 years of work as an artist. Within the exhibition – in order to emphasise distinctive aspects of the architecture in question – Binet establishes a relationship between it and another building or landscape. Her photographic compositions, which are unusual in terms of perspective and often abstract, thus enter into an aesthetic dialogue and simultaneously accentuate the distinctive qualities of the building. Today, as at the beginning of her career, Binet still shoots her photographs on analogue film, usually in black and white, and she is among the most sought-after representatives of her profession in the world. This year in the US she was awarded the Excellence in Photography Award of the Julius Shulman Institute.
